

David Pingitore, PhD

17 Gleneden Avenue, Oakland, Ca 94611

Office Phone: 510-433-7132 Email: davidpingitore@comcast.net

Below is a brief list of some of my publications in clinical psychology and related fields:

Practice Patterns Across the Clinical Life Span: Results form the California Survey of Psychological Practice.

Pingitore, D.P. & Scheffler, R.M. (2004). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, (36)4, 434-440.

Comparisons of Psychiatrists and Psychologists in Clinical Practice.

Pingitore, D.P., Scheffler, R.M., & Sentell, T. (2002). Psychiatric Services, (53)8, 977-983.

Frequency and Scope of Mental Health Services to African-Americans in Primary Care.

Snowden. L, & Pingitore, D.P. (2002). Mental Health Services Research, 4(3), 123-130.

Psychologist Supply, Manage Care, and Their Effects on Income: Fault Lines Beneath Professional Psychology.

Pingitore, D.P., Scheffler, R.M., Sentell, T., & Haley, M. (2001). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, (32), 6, 597-606.

Professional Psychology in a New Era: Practice-based Evidence from California.

Pingitore, D.P., Scheffler, R.M., Haley, M., & Sentell, T. (2001). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, (32), 6, 585-596.

Gender, Practice Patterns, and Income Differences Among California Psychologist in Clinical Practice.

Sentell, T., Pingitore, D.P., & Scheffler, R.M. (2001). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, (32), 6, 607-617.

Persons with Depression and the Treatments They Receive: Comparison of Primary Care Physicians and Psychiatrists. Pingitore, D.P., Snowden L., Klinkman, M., Sansone, R. (2000). The International Journal of Psychiatry in Medicine, 31(1), 41-60.

Postdoctoral Training in Primary Care Health Psychology: Duties, Observations, and Recommendations.

Pingitore, D.P. (1999). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, 30, (3), 283-290.

“Leveraging Our Souls? Psychology in the Era of Health Care Reform.”

Pingitore, D.P. (1998). Science as Culture, 7, (3), 317-333.

“The Corporatization of Psychotherapy: A Study in Professional Transformation.”

Pingitore, D.P. (1997). Free Associations, 7, (40), 101-127.

[Review of H. Stein, American Medicine as Culture (1991), Boulder: Westview Press]

Pingitore, D.P. (1996), Psychoanalytic Books, 7, (1), 134-141.

[Review of N. Lewer, Physicians And The Peace Movement (1992), London: Cass and Co.]

Pingitore, D.P. (1995), Social Science and Medicine, 41, (6), 909-910.

“American Culture in American Medicine: The Case of Family Medicine.”

Pingitore, D.P. (1993). Science as Culture, 4, (19), 167-211.

“AIDS Services Offered by Doctoral Psychology Programs: Results of a National Survey.”

Pingitore, D.P., and Morrison, A.L. (1992). Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, 19, (1), 110-114.